 - (b) All technical data relating to the Producibility Enhancement/Performance Improvement (PE/PI) contract proposals, C-17 Engineering Change Proposals (ECP's), deviations, waivers or any other comparable documents that may change the Training Systems design. The Seller will release the technical data to the Training Systems contractor(s) as it is developed. The technical content of the proposals will be forwarded to the Training Systems contractor(s) as soon as practical, to enable Training System change proposals to be released concurrently with the aircraft proposals. Additionally, a copy of the final C-17 change proposal will be forwarded to the Training Systems contractor(s) concurrent with release to the Procuring Contracting Officer (PCO).
 - (c) All technical data, and computer software, specifically developed in the Seller's internal simulation activities for the C-17 that the Government determines may otherwise be useful to the Training Systems contractor(s).
- (2) The Seller agrees to sell to the Training Systems contractor(s) any C-17 aircraft parts required for the development, manufacture, or support of the Training Systems concurrent with the C-17 production and/or retrofit buy and negotiate an agreement with the Training Systems contractor(s) for control and nondisclosure of technical data and computer software data required by the Training Systems contractor(s) which is considered by Seller to be proprietary, provided that such data has not been delivered nor is deliverable under this or any other Government contract with unlimited rights as defined in the clause entitled, "Rights in Technical Data and Computer Software" of this contract.
- (3) The cooperative enabling agreement shall also establish the capability for the Training Systems contractor(s) to provide to Buyer the training impact data and budgetary cost estimates associated with implementing changes.
- (4) Under this contract the Seller shall perform only that effort and charge only those costs associated with the Training Systems Cooperative Enabling Agreement which are applicable to the Production effort.
